

title: Environment for workflow

num_comments: 2

num_up_votes: 3

upvote_ratio: 1.0

Post Text

Hello everyone! I was wondering if you guys can share how you set up your physical work environment to reduce distractions and improve workflow? For example, do you guys aim for complete silence and reduced visual distractions? I usually plug in ear plugs and aim for complete silence. I was hoping to get more ideas from others to see how I can improve my focus. Thanks!

Comments

Commenter_2

ID: REDACTED! ~(o.o)~ <3, Upvotes: 5

I work in a lab space

- * electrical/computer systems all over the place
- * people (including me) run cables across the room (with cable organizers) regularly
- * there's some 15 people all doing different things in the same room

Chaos. Absolute chaos most of the time.

I am fueled by trying to control the chaos. My desk is sort of off in a little side-room, so when I'm doing more thought work/analysis, it's calmer.

Due to the chaos, I've become fairly pedantic in communication. Context doesn't exist. I'm still on the fence if people like that or not.

Commenter_3

ID: REDACTED! ~(o.o)~ <3, Upvotes: 3

oh my desk is in basement and it's cluttered. doesn't bother me a bit when I m working.

I hsvc very good lighting. including SAD light. lighting is what helps me work.